speechless and fearful suffocated by air
escaped from your grasping I couldn't stay there

one single day longer now that I had exposed what your facades and walls didn't say

Attracted by wisdom
and seductive songs
I followed your footsteps wherever I was

your lap offered comfort deliverance your touch divine and indulgent
you hurt me so much

Talking by glances
people stay dumb
hostile words getting even meaner like this

I woke up but it was already too late
I said if I shall die
please never here

Leaving I may be
while knowing for sure Soon I will be with you...
...again
