I got this secret life but it's been working for me Every little second of my time gets crammed with simulation
Every single friend of me never sees me for too long
I live with these people for weeks and months at a time
And I won't see these people until the next random time
My friends at home who haven't seem me in so long
I tell them about this life til I go live it again

Does anyone does anyone know does anyone know what I'm like
What I'm really like Does anyone I know care what goes on what goes on in my life
Well maybe I'll tell them
Whatever it is, I'll see them again
Maybe I'll see them
Whenever it is, I'll leave here again
Again and again and again
