So little time, but it has to be right. I've forgot everything that was once in sight. You make me feel like no one else. You bring out the feeling that I once kept to myself. And the words that were so hard to find I find with you in mind. This can't be wrong. This I've waited for so long. I have been filled with empty promises, but now they're all gone. They're all gone.
Another coincidence. Another coincidence this all makes perfect sense. This is the way I feel now. I don't ever want to feel that road so close to the ground, the ground, so close to the ground. A day and then today wondering what holds. The blood in my veins starts running cold. Empty thoughts, yet not so empty.
Wondering what's going to happen to you and me, to you and me. Another coincidence.
