The way it all happens I still can't figure out. The reasons why I have these feelings is something I think about. The way you make me feel is something I can't describe. The mistakes that I have made have left me dead and empty inside. But how can I find the answer to every question? Let you down, I never wanted too. Let you down, I have to let you down. The way it all began, the way it will never end. Every time I look at you I fall all over again. And I said there is nothing more that I have ever wanted. I've let you down. No one else. Disappointed in myself.
