Out in the night, lovers hold hands as they stake out
the light
Sirens scream as they rush out of sight

We whisper plans and promise to love for as long as we can We'll make this night the night it began

While we're still young, while we're still young, while we're still young

Down on the street, strangers trade glances each time their eyes meet Neon lights dance as if to a beat

We take it slow and wait for our song on the car radio Then sing along with the words that we know

While we're still young, while we're still young, while
we're still young

Take my hand and hold on tight, we'll go running, running from the light
We may stand, we may fall, take a chance to lose it all

While we're still young, while we're still young, while
we're still young

the light
Sirens scream as they rush out of sight

While we're still young, while we're still young, while
we're still young
While we're still young, while we're still young, while
we're still young
While we're still young
