When I choose to go out I always leave a light on When I have to stay in you'd find me sitting by the phone
My friends tell me that I'm lucky now that I'm living on my own
And while they've never been more right
Will someone tell me when will love come home

When will love come home, when will love come home
When will love come home, oh, love come home

I can do what I want, I don't have to think for two now Wear the clothes that I like, I don't have to give up to you now
My friends say that I'm so lucky, being on my own
Oh, they love it that I fight
Will no one tell me when will love come home

When will love come home, when will love come home
When will love come home, oh, our love come home

When will love, when will love
When will love come home

Come home, come home
Come home, come home

My friends say that I'm so lucky, being on my own
And oh, they've never been so right
'Cause someone tell me when will love come home

When will love come home, when will love come home
When will love come home
When will love come home, come home
When will love come home, come home
Come home
