[Intro: Dom Pachino] I mean, we had some good times together though, right Damn I miss your smile, I mean It was probably for the best, yo [Dom Pachino] Sometimes I miss her, used to hug and kiss her, miss insecure I used to diss her, that used to piss her off I was her nigga, but was more like a father figure Taught her how to cook, clean, and get a nut off Was I good man? Merely, to be sincerely true I was fucking Jasmine, Linda and Shirley What could I do? I was lusting, boo Besides that, I was not really trusting you Now why's that? Maybe all the clubbing All the tight clothes, maybe cuz YOu was hanging out with some trife hoes But I love you, despite those But if I can't trust you, while I'm out on tour I can't be yours Music's my first love and you're my second I told you that, the first time that I got you naked So respect it and everything'll be splendid and if not I'mma have to end it, matter fact we already ended [Chorus 2X: Dom Pachino] Loving you is, easy cuz you're beautiful But, beauty can only get us so far [Dom Pachino] We went from lusting to huggin and loving to not trusting From holding hands in the park walking, to not talking From being obsesed, to being under arrest For domestic, I couldn't hurt you, couldn't have that on my record Know my conscious, and babe I'm saying honest We had something special, even though somehow we lost it But hearts are meant to be broken like good pussy meant to be soaking wet And you're a girl I never forget Remember going home late nights with hickeys on your neck And getting smacked by your moms and told to have some respect You ran right back to my lab all mad and upset I whiped your tears and licked you places, should I just say? I made you forget, snuggled up was the way that we slept This is young love as good as it gets And your friends was jealous of what we shared We made a promise that we'll always be there For each other, one way or another [Chorus 2X]
