I am writing this to you and hope that one day soon
You will come to realize, you're precious in His eyes
I know you feel alone a million miles from home
And it seems that no one cares that life is so unfair

Hold on to this promise like it's your last breath
Let it fill your heart when it's all you have left

You gotta believe, you gotta be strong, you gotta have faith enough
To know no matter where you are, He is always with you Never give up, never give in, His only son died for all our sins
And He will lift you up and hold you in His love
He gave His son, He sends His love, yeah oh

When the weight is just too much and there's no one you can trust
When it's dark and you're afraid, let the Spirit guide your way
There is so much left to do, a great big world to wander through
So many people in your life waiting to see your smile

Hold on to this promise like it's your last breath
Let it fill your heart when it's all you have left

You gotta believe, you gotta be strong, you gotta have
To know no matter where you are, He is always with you Never give up, never give in, His only son died for all
our sins
And He will lift you up and hold you in His love
He gave His son and He sends His love

His love is all around you, a fortress that surrounds you Let it comfort and protect you from the storm It's time to start a new day, He will help you find your way
To a better place

Hold on to this promise like it's your last breath

Let it fill your heart

You gotta believe, you gotta be strong, you gotta have
To know no matter where you are, He is always with you Never give up, never give in, His only son died for all
our sins
And He will lift you up and hold you in His love

You gotta believe, you gotta be strong, you gotta have
To know no matter where you are, He is always with you Never give up, never give in, His only son died for all
our sins
And He will lift you up and hold you in His love

You gotta believe, you gotta be strong, you gotta have
To know no matter where you are, He is always with you Never give up, never give in, His only son died for all
our sins
And He will lift you up and hold you in His love
You gotta believe, you gotta be strong
