With all my said unsaid Never swallow
The idea of a happy ending Another days memory dies As I'm made to smile these lifeless days have left me with an empty heart another wounded memory dies I could never swallow your false ideals of a lifeless happy ending how could words slit wrists and doors close present day heart felt moments killed by a slap to the hand another wounded memory dries poisonous screams with messages not thought of when released another day here another memory dies
