Look in your hair, young love
I have left you a present you will not find unless you look
I have left a part of me there
Don't be surprised when I end up never leaving again

Because of so many pieces of myself I have hidden on you
When we say goodbye
One day we won't say goodbye
One day we won't say

I know by the trail
But I know now, but I know now
I know by the trail
That I'll leave behind, that I've left behind

You don't know this but I walk around
A grotesque mess when you're far
Missing limbs hidden in your home but I pay no mind
I don't ever feel complete unless I'm, I'm where you are

I know by the trail
But I know now, but I know now
I know by the trail
That I'll leave behind, that I've left behind

I can't lie, I miss seeing your feelings for me
Leak through your eyes
I'm a gross wreck and need my body
And I know just where those pieces sleep

I know by the trail
But I know now, but I know now
I know by the trail
That I'll leave behind, that I've left behind
