

Afters, The "Falling Into Place"

It was raining on the sun
The ground beneath my feet was crumbling
Day and night had come undone
It was the season of my wandering

Somehow
Somewhere
You found me there
It was the moment that it all became clear

I was on the edge of a distant world
A shattered life
With nowhere left to turn 'til I saw you there
And everything I thought had gone to waste was falling into place
Falling into place

It's finally quiet in my head as I lay the pieces at your feet
It's finally starting to make sense
I guess I found the missing part of me

Oceans that I almost drowned in
I had to lose it all just so I could find out you were there to break my fall

I was on the edge of a distant world
A shattered life
With nowhere left to turn 'til I saw you there
And everything I thought had gone to waste was falling
into place
Falling into place
Falling into

Oceans that I almost drowned in
I had to lose it all
just so I could find out you were there to break my fall

In the season of my wandering I was on the edge of a distant world
A shattered life
With nowhere left to turn 'til I saw you there

And everything I thought had gone to waste was falling Falling

I was on the edge of a distant world
A shattered life
With nowhere left to turn 'til I saw you there
And everything I thought had gone to waste was falling
into place
