You have to hate the world
It's required by your clothes
Consistency is everything
As everybody knows
It's so cold baby, you're losing your hold baby
And you're gonna fold, baby, before too long

But don't tell me your secret lies in London
I already know
I can see your secret lies in London
Everywhere I go

There is a sun somewhere
Extremely far away
Your tired eyes reflecting the sky
A drizzly steel grey

There's no light in there, there's no sight in there
I get right in there and it's all dark

Don't deny your secret lies in London
It's not worth your while
You can lie back and think of England
And miss it by a mile

You can't conceal your secret lies in London
Obviously not
I can feel your secret lies in London
Deeper than you thought
