tuesday morning, sleeping in your clothes.
hiding something where no one ever goes.
somewhere, somewhere, it's all right.
stay there, stay there, in the light.
red umbrella floating down the street.
it's raining downtown everytime we meet.
christmas lights hang down from minty trees.
in her place that no one really sees.
tuesday morning, i can't fight
remembering
everything
remembering
everything.
i thought i saw you in the corner of my eye,
moving quickly with the people that were passing by,
pausing on the sidewalk to strike a pose,
hiding things everybody already knows.
stay there, stay there, it's all right.
empty morning, i can't fight
remembering
everything.
remembering
everything.
