Too many billion peopleRunning around the planet
What is the chance in heaven
That you'd find your way to me
Tell me what is this sweet sensation
It's a miracle that's happened
Though I search for explanation
Only one thing it could be

That I was born for you
It was written in the stars
Yes I was born for you
And the choice was never ours

It's as if the powers of the universe
Conspired to make you mine
And till the day I die
I blessed the day that I was born for you

Too many foolish people
Trying to come between us
None of them seem to matter
When I look into your eyes

Now I know why I belong here
In your arms I found the answer
Somehow nothing would seem so wrong here
If they'd only realized

That I was born for you
And that you were born for me
And in this random world
This was clearly meant to be

What we have the world
Could never understand
Or ever take away
And till the day I die
I blessed the day that I was born for you

What we have the world
Could never understand
Or ever take away

And as the years go by
Until the day I die
I blessed the day that I was born for you
