

The Band

"Where I Should Always Be"

Visit "Where I Should Always Be" on MotoLyrics.com

When you find me walkin' in a dream
Like a falling leaf floating in the sea
Can you hear me prayin' on my knees, knockin' on your door ? I can't take no more
As you hold me close to where I should always be.

Maybe freedom was lost and disappeared
And the winter freeze covered all my tears
But I would let nothing melt me to the bone, eating me no more, I can't take no more
As you hold me close to where I should always be.

I can breathe with all my might (I can breathe)
I can touch and feel your life (I can feel)
It's no wonder I can barely speak (I can speak)
It's no wonder I can feel (I can feel).

When you find me walkin' in a dream
Like a falling leaf floating in the sea
But can you hear me prayin' on my knees, knockin' on your door ? I can't take no more
As you hold me close to where I should always be.

Can you hear me prayin' on my knees, knockin' on your door ? I can't take no more
As you hold me close to where I should always be
As you hold me close to where I should always be.

Visit The Band page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.