I should thank you for the flowers
Can't imagine how you came to think of those
That same colour rose , for me
My world is made up of memories
You and I , the laughter and tears
You never need to worry

I can't see anything
See anything but you
There could be so many others
But I can't see anything
See anything but you

I remember all the good things
When you held me for the first time
Things were right
On that rainy night , for us
Love , then , now and forever
No time real and right where we are
As good as my eyes can be

I can't see anything
See anything but you
There could be some many others
But I can't see anything
See anything but you

No one ever cried
No one ever stood in the way
Ev'rybody lies
Ev'rybody buys what love is today
You can be a fool
In the beginning , baby you were there
And when you're winning
What do you do
Don't ask me

I can't see anything
See anything but you
There could be so many others
But I can't see anything

See anything but you
There could be so many others but ...

(repeat last verse and fade out)
