I lied to this man as I called him a friend

He fell as I tripped him; he won't smile again

The fruits of the loops of the friendships that droop

They pulled up my head as I try to lay dead

Never realise I'm painting the corners, the edge

As the fruits of the loops of the friendships that droop

Where do you go when you hide your love away?

Where do you go when you hide your love away?

There's no point in asking; there'll be no reply

As you try to convict me I'll move side to side

The fruits of the loops of the friendships that droop

The situation cannot be rectified

We're drowning the small ones with loose lips and lies

As the fruits of the loops of the friendships that droop

Where'd you hide your love away?

Where do you go when you hide your love away?

Where do you go when you hide your love away?

Where do you go when you hide your love away?

Where do you go when you hide your love away?

Where do you go when you hide your love away?

Where do you go when you hide your love away?

Where do you go when you hide your love away?

Where do you go when you hide your love away?

Where do you go when you hide your love away?
