I can only say these things to you while you're sleeping.
I hear the hum from the wires and the Sounds of the morning creeping.
I lie awake and pretend, you can hear me.

And you tell me that you're scared that you're
Turning into your mother.
I feel myself, turning into my father.
We could lie to each other like they do,
And say we're so happy.
It's easy when you're young and you still want it
So badly.

And I feel my heart pounding
And I think I might scream

I could tell you that you're all I ever Wanted,
Dear I could utter every word you'd ever
Hope to hear.
I shudder when I think that I might
Not be here forever, forever, forever.

The night you whispered like a ghost and you looked so shaken.
You were so quiet like a child and you told me
You wanted to be taken.
I just never thought of you as the kind of girl
Who would say that.
And you suddenly seem like
Some faceless thing in my grasp.

And I'd be lying if I said that I didn't find it
Exciting, your eyes so lit, your face so warm and Inviting.
the face of someone I don't know

And I could tell you that you're all I ever
Wanted, dear I could utter every word you'd ever
Hope you'd hear.
I shudder when I think that I
Might not be here forever, forever, forever.

All I can think is that it must a kind of Rebellion,
To arm these fields like soldiers and Slay them.

I can tell you that you're all I ever wanted dear,
Through the din of your breathin while you're Sleepin here, and you wake and you ask me if I'm Gonna to be here forever, forever, forever.

Your face so twisted and your eyes alight,
I want to tell you I can save you when you cry at night.
But I'll be trying.
Love is defying.
