The letters pile up in the hallway
Junk mail and bills from the catalogues
And the neighbors have guessed 'cause I've canceled
the milk
And they don't hear your voice through the walls anymore

How is your life today?
How is your life?
How is your life today?

I was kissed on the cheek by a cold mouth
While the taxi was waiting like a getaway car
Well, each second seems like a lifetime
And the cat, it's been staring at me all this time

How is your life today?
How is your life?
How is your life today?
