I guess you're right
and there's nothing I will say to you this time

You told me just what I had to live for And there's no flight in my fire and more than that it's so alright it's so alright

If I meet more than your eye
I guess you're right
If I wake up in your mind
I guess you're right

I guess you're smart cause I'm taken by you taken me apart
I could best believe I died to live for
For the age it takes and needs and I am speaking like I've spoken only for

If I meet more than your eye
I guess you're right
If I wake up in your mind
i guess you're right

If I sink into your sleep and stay with you
I guess you're right
If I never let you go I'll know you're so and oh-so right

If I meet more than your eye
I guess you're right
If I wake up in your mind
I guess you're right

Can I crawl around your bones and make my home?
Would that be right?

If I never let you go I'll know you're so and oh-so right

Take it as a sign
Take in every sound you hear
Take every sight

Take my desire, take it all take it as proof

take me and this life
I'm taking you
