It's another detachment
Same arrangement, different placement
I'm the saddest of moments
All alone in my unspoken

I was dying to feel you
To be in you and to heal you
I was grieving the distance
Realizing my insistence

And I see the only real I know
I feel I have it all

You are the world, you are the world
You're the only world
You are the world, you are the world
You're the only world

We were such an amazement
When I found you in the basement
Spent a night on the ceiling
What a feeling, what a feeling

And I see the only real I know
I feel I have it all

You are the world, you are the world
You're the only world
You are the world, you are the world
You're the only world

You are the world, you are the world
You're the only world
You are the world, you are the world

And I see the only real I know
I feel I have it all

You are the world, you are the world
You're the only world
You are the world, you are the world
You're the only world

You are the world, you are the world
You're the only world
You are the world, you are the world
