jackhammers outside my window woke me up again today
and all the voices in my head well its so hard to make them go away stayin out all night lookin for somethin ill never find im fightin with myself and im losin control of my mind i reached out in anger i reached out in love i lived a life of self abuse i prayed to the heavens above jackhammers outside my window
lookin for some new stimulation but all of these things they never last i know i have to move forward but i keep holding on to the past i just wanna be happy with the way things are i just wanna look up at the sky at night and appreciate the stars destruction leaves an empty space in emptiness again i begin to create
feeling good again now
in some new kind of way
feeling good again now...
