Somewhere in time there was a dream
A dream I felt deep inside
That no one could understand

Where do I go now?
When will I find my way?

All The Lies I've left behind
Seem so far now from my mind
Now I take I look inside, what's left of me
From the life that once was mine
I tried to heal the wounds of time
Never really did believe the lies were real

From beyond I'm reminded of a memory
Now it's gone into the gray of the moment

Where do I go now?
When will I find my way?

All The Lies I've left behind
Seem so far now from my mind
Now I take I look inside, what's left of me
From the life that once was mine
I tried to heal the wounds of time
Never really did believe the lies were real
Where do I go now?
When will I find my way?

All The Lies I've left behind
Seem so far now from my mind
Now I take I look inside, what's left of me
From the life that once was mine
I tried to heal the wounds of time
Never really did believe the lies were real
