Gone for a moment that you'll never know
All of these things that you can't control

They know who you are
They know who you are
They know who you are
They know who you are

Gone for a moment that you'll never know
All of these things that you can't control
The lights from above they move in real slow
Giving you things that you'll never know

They know who you are
They know who you are
They know who you are
They know who you are

One for the machines that fill up the sky
And one for the demon that lights up your eye

They know who you are
They know who you are

Gone for a moment that you'll never know
All of these things that you can't control
The lights from above they move in real slow
Giving you things that you'll never know

They know who you are
They know who you are
They know who you are
They know who you are

One for the machines that fill up the sky
And one for the demon that lights up your eye

They know who you are
They know who you are
They know who you are
They know who you are
They know who you are

They know who you are

Right, right, right, right

Go, go, go, go

Go, go, go, go
