I ain't worried 'bout your deep frustration
I'm not concerned with your petty currency
The thing to think about's the situation
The situation's that you sit there and think

Who gives a shit about your calculations?
All I see in you is work and no play
All that you slave for isn't worth my time
What do you hope to gain continuing this way?

Your madness will only spread so far
Fortunately not everyone's where you are You build yourself a cage, forgot where you put the door

Don't give a damn for your bleak adaptation
From what I see your just spreading your disease
Don't care much for your interpretation
I just watch your castles crumble to the sea

You think it's frightening but I think it's funny
You had it all and still you wanted more
And now you're fading with utter desperation
You throw it back at me but I'm not soar

Don't you feel, don't you feel?
Don't you feel it's time for a change!?

You saw me crying I was down on my knees
I was pleading with you begging to you please
I don't believe in it don't make me play the game
It isn't healthy and I know you feel the same
