"You silly boy it's much too late
To ever reach the shore
Surely you hear the Raven call
So move along, nevermore"

Take a breath and then suspend
Disbelief that keeps you confined
Despite the things that you've been sold
There's no such thing as straight lines

So bravely stand and be Passionately sing and be

"What about the dying earth", you say
Well it cannot be redeemed.
One by one I'll watch you suffocate
And grin forsakenly"

Let light come down like it had never been
And touch everyone around
It'll rip away all secrecy
And leave without a sound

"So sorry if you thought this was the end
It's in fact the point of no return
You can try your best to silence me
I'm afraid you'll have to wait your turn"

(I learnt of things I cannot speak
Did I really need to know why?
Now aught but one thing governs me;
Is my failing need to try)

"The pits of hell will be welcoming
Next to where I'll send you now
It's over, the end, lights out
Wrap it up and take a bow
But don't think that you can.."
