Everything is crashing down;
Everything is falling apart.
We never wanted to find out
What it's like to go up in flames

Now the world is cold and grey;
It's harder to face the truth
Locked in our minds:
You can't save me; I can't save you

Beauty lies within
Traces deliberately left behind
Beauty lies within
A face full of scars
Poison sinking into his skin
I wish we could smell the sea
I wish I could hold you
That you would hold me

In the end
Far too late
We ask what will remain
But the world had closed her eyes
There's nothing left but pain

I wish we could smell the sea
I wish I could hold you
That you would hold me

You can't save me; I can't save you

Beauty lies within
Traces deliberately and left me behind
Beauty lies within
A face full of scars
Poison sinking into skin
Locked in our minds
You can't save me; I can't save you
