The waking sun on a desert plain
The polar star in the sky again
Your open eyes beam out the surprise from them
You're our reward

So unpredictable, so delectable
So undetectable, unsuspectable
You're our reward
There's nothing else after all
You're our reward

Do I still hear her laughter? Come see every laughter
Nothing still matters, the future's scattered
If it's the tactic it's just fantastic
Pure elation, simply anticipation
It's the suggestion, the eternal question

Wasn't feeling possible here and now
It is both of us after all still

Waiting and wanting not knowing what for
The meaning we're standing outside the door
Of everyday living, always the feeling was more
You're our reward

So unpredictable, so delectable
So undetectable, unsuspectable
You're our reward

You're our reward, I still hear her laughter
You're our reward, nothing else matters
You're our reward, if it's the tactic
You're our reward, pure elation
You're our reward, it's the suggestion
You're our reward of the eternal question

Do I still hear her laughter?
Nothing else matters, the future's scattered
If it's the tactic it's just fantastic
Pure elation, anticipation
It's the suggestion to know the eternal question

To know the eternal question
To know the eternal question
To know the eternal question
To know the eternal question
To know the eternal question
