What happened to what a man was supposed to be?
This false sense of security will eventually consume.
This will consume all we are and all we know!
Will it never end?
Drop this mentality there's more to life than this, we can make it through the night
Following us directly into the grave. Death O' Death, devour this pitiful life that we have created.
If not in life then in death it will be revealed of what a waste this life has been.
Drop this mentality there's more to life than this, we can make it through the night
Why have we become so weak? What do we have to fear?
