Feeling unworthy, come entwine me
I need some security but I don't believe in me
I'm in such a state of mind here that I don't even know why I
Why I came here
I'm losing all connections with the world I feel neglected
Internally

Your wall you built so high
Love is unspoken, no reason why
You left all things unsaid
Drowning emotions, no light is shed
Your wall you built so high
Silence spoken, stifled cry
You left all things unsaid
The flame is out, the fire's dead

Time is not listening to the words that I plead
You give me that sad look because you know what I need
I want to have you closer, but you push and pull me farther
Farther from you
Our love is here and visible to everyone around me
But you still can't see

Your wall you built so high
Silence spoken, stifled cry
You left all things unsaid
The flame is out, the fire's dead

I won't lie awake anymore with visions of you
But I know that you'll forget, but I hope I do too We'll find in the end of the search, another chance to start
Freeing the ability to connect another heart

Where is my heart?
It's falling apart
Where is my heart?

It's falling apart
Where is my heart?
It's falling apart

Your wall you built so high
Silence spoken, stifled cry
You left all things unsaid
The flame is out
The flame is out
The flame is out
