"Hold On"

Judging by your shaking hands it's clear you've lost it all.

I knew that if I let go you would fall.

You've built your bridges, burned them down, then sifted through the dust.

Looking for the love you lost.

You, you run and hide, from all the things you hold inside.

You, you'll spit your lies.

You say you'll change but never try.

Hold on, hold on.

Cause I'm better off alone.

Hold on, hold on.

Cause I can make it on my own.

Hold on, hold on.

You can't take back your choices.

So just hold on.

Everyday I bear the weight that came from your shoulders.

I was only trying to pull us closer.

I tried to set you free while you were killing me.

Still nothing's as it seems, we're scarred from broken dreams.

You, make up your mind.

Let go of your foolish pride.

You, you'll spit your lies.

You say you'll change but never try.
