"A Better View"

The miracle was true and it bled from me to you
Now we're bound into what we've found
But hey, what a better view
It's colour you should try when the light beneath you
Dies
Spread your wings and give up the things
To become a firefly.
The silhouette of you cast a shadow to wash me through
I believe we can all succeed
To become the lucky few.
Keep on painting passion
And you might just save the day
Oh, colour I want you.
Keep on painting patterns
And you might just break away
Oh, colour where were you
When I needed you
We stick with human glue, with a colour fit for two Now we're bound we can turn around
To become the lucky few.
The pinnacle we know is that everyone will come and go
Take a chance, all for true romance
And hey, let your colours flow.
