You say you wanna know what there's about me
You say you wanna know my secrets too
Well, I've tried for years to keep some sort of distance
That is why I kept it all from you

But you do things to me that I'm not used to
Usually I leave and you won't know
Before it's way too late and we can't change it
Well it's time, for the first time I won't go

If you think we're worth it, we are worth it
I won't fight it, for the first time I will see where this will end
If you think we're worth it, we are worth it
I won't fight it, I will be here
I'll be here, no more pretend

You ask for me to trust that you are different
What has been before well that is not the same
And the demons of your past you must let go off
If I've had enough and leave they are to blame

If you think we're worth it, we are worth it
I won't fight it, for the first time I will see where this will
end
If you think we're worth it, we are worth it
I won't fight it, I will be here
I'll be here, no more pretend

You do things to me that I'm not used to
Usually I leave and you won't know
Before it's way too late and we can't change it
Well it's time, for the first time I won't go

If you think we're worth it, we are worth it
I won't fight it, for the first time I will see where this will
end
If you think we're worth it, we are worth it
I won't fight it, I will be here
I'll be here, no more pretend
