Lined up waiting for the execution
Blank stares fall from out of trees
Never leave home praying for the new solution
Sick from all the indifference in the breeze
Out your head down, you're tied up
With a blank stare you know that your time's up
Now you're lined up for the execution
For de-evolution
For the new solution

So you can see the way that things are gonna be
It seems like you've been running out
Like, you've been running out now
Now it seems like you've been running out

God knows you could lose some pride
With an ego you could never even try to hide

On your deathbed nobody stops by
I remember when you thought you would never die
With your head high, go to sleep forever
Its your last endeavor
Who could do it better ?

I know its just a game to you but not for me
And it seems like you've been running out

Like, you've been running out now
Now it seems like you've been running out

Every second is passing by so fast
Everything that you cling to will not last
There's a chemical weapon made from all your broken
dreams

With fear in your eyes lie still in your bed
Don't concern yourself with things left unsaid
With fear in your eyes lie still in your bed
With fear in your eyes lie still in your bed

Your contribution is slowing progress
You can't build something with empty promises

Every second is passing by so fast
Everything that you cling to will not last
There's a chemical weapon made from all your broken
dreams
Every second is passing by so fast
Everything that you cling to will not last
There's a chemical weapon made from all your broken
dreams
From all your broken dreams
From all your broken dreams
