And I would tell you everything just to be the next to know the words you love to hear
Never again will we be watching from the stands
With our hearts clutched in our hands
As we brave the new years day
The plans have changed you forgot to mention if it looked familiar I'd probably let it go
Never again will we be watching from the stands
With our hearts clutched in our hands
As we brave the new years day
And when the bubble bursts between us I don't know your name
Or anything, my heart surrounds you this could be Something more than we've overrated to see Deny all we are; contradictions to see Deny all we are; contradictions set apart
Selfishness and wasted time
Trading daydreams for suicide
