I can't believe the grass is green.
I can't tell you what I've seen.
Who am I to walk away.
But I don't know if I can stay.

We haven't said a word in years.
We haven't ever faced our fears.
You never asked me what was wrong.
And then you said it in a song.

And you say that the grass is greener over there,
So I go and then the grass is green.
And you say that the grass is greener over here,
So I go and then the grass is green.

I hope these aren't dying words.
And I'll keep flying with the birds.
Swimming in the magic reef.
Dancing like a falling leaf.

And still I don't know what to do.
The grass is green but I am blue.
And when I see that nothings changed.
The city boy is still deranged.

And you say that the grass is greener over there,
So I go and then the grass is green.
And you say that the grass is greener over here,
So I go and then the grass is green.
