Tonight I've a long journey ahead, While you lay silently in bed.

Our cup of thrust will need refilling, Our little house will need

Rebuilding.

For soon I leave on the path to battle, Despair and I have a long way to Travel.

The future snarls like a beast of pray, For we don't know what horrors

Awaits.

So lets just lay here for a while, Leave this wicked world behind,

Soon enough we'll rejoin time, And all it fucking evil's.

I stand to embrace my old friend regret, A heavy heart roars in my chest.

It will soon be dawn, the hours late, I'll be well gone before you wake.

Life never seems to give us a break, but I'll return to brighter days.

If I must fight all earths darkness, that's what your father will do.

I would walk through the sun itself, if it meant getting back to you.

If oceans dry, or worlds collide, To the harsh humour of time.

Lets hope this body can take it all, cause this heart won't stop fighting.

I'll face whatever tyrants next, With what strength that I have left.

With broken swords, and battered shields, Till I'm reduced to fists and Feet.

Until the sisters write my ending, until this tired heart
stops beating,

Like a rock the ocean beats against, I'll keep standing till I can't.

To war!

Bring your worst, let freedom ring,
Stand by this flag, stand as a king.
They wise for death before the end,
With all the wickedness we bring.

We will rid this fucking field of life,
Our flaming arrows will rape the skies.
We'll will be the last upon it,
The last unconquered standing fortress.

I won't back down I will not fade,
I'll honor any packed I've made.
As I swore on the day that you were born,
I'll be there for all the fights to come.

For all the evil's that I've caused, for all the innocents
that's lost,
It's worth the blood, the sweat and tears, Just to hold you in my arms.
As I walk the path up to this door, To a smile that could melt snow.
To a greeting as brilliant as, The view of the edge of the world.

When word fail, don't fail to see, by this stubborn life
that I lead,
I've not excepted death yet, so don't bury me.
As sure as I am, that the blackest night been beaten by the sun,
As I swore on the day that you were born, I'll be there for all the battles
To come.
