Greatness awaits us,
Unleashed their darkest fears.
With eyes as bright as hell,
Deaths howling fills their ears.

As once scattered ashes,
We stand united for the innocent unborn.
As bloody claws drip round them,
In the shadow of the wolf.

Our lives are forged on the shoulders of giants and
arenas of tyrants,
Take center stage my friend for the spotlight is upon us.
We are cursed to die, but not without a fight,
Let them know their place, in a ready made grave.

We haven't faltered yet, and we wont till death,
Except your primal instinct, survival, advancement.
Our senses heightened, never tire or rest,
Outnumbered and out armored, lets put them to the test.

We stand with generations past,
We swim against the tides of time.
Our culture, customs, folk and land,
Our eternal stand for ancient pride.

As once scattered ashes,
We stand united for the innocent unborn.
As bloody claws drip round them,
In the shadow of the wolf.

We stand proudly in forefathers footsteps,
And we shall protect them while we still have strength left.
And to corrupters who tamper with this faith,
Will hear the howling of blackened beasts at their gates.
