The path we walk is fading,
Being swallowed by the vermin of this world.
Some seem content with the sewers, and the scraps that they are thrown.
We're here to live, not to linger.

We shall defy, we shall defend,
Our flag, our banner, is life itself.
We are the last, we walk with death.
And we cannot fail.

For vulnerable and weak, is what we are,
But in the blackened spaces between the stars,
We will wait to strike.

Wait to strike, against the end itself.

Focus and courage in our hearts there can be no compromising.
Our only goal must be, to eradicate the poison.

Faced with abyssic storms, the blackened winds of Armageddon.
We can't just stand here, And watch our disappearance.

Once here stood a proud people, Those who held it's heritage so high.
We stood with strength and valor, And not as cornered rats, forced to Fight.
For kinsmen of the past, for the enemies who wait as dust.
Arm yourself with knowledge, before this raging fire consumes us.

With ancient wisdom, As an instrument of progression,
The folk of old respected, our lineage protected.
Stay a strong foundation, For when the winds of
change comes pounding,
Drive the spear of destiny into the black abyss we face.

Drowning in the sands of time, Our identity entombed in ice.

We'd die before we're conquered, We'd die before we're conquered.

To sustain and strengthen those beyond, is our purpose.

For we demand ascension, lets take back what is ours.

With ancient wisdom, As an instrument of progression,
The folk of old respected, our lineage protected.

Stay a strong foundation, For when the winds of
change comes pounding,

Drive the spear of destiny into the black abyss we face.
