In a letter never sent I said I love you
And it told that I was always thinking of you
I couldnt help but ask
Could I have a second chance
And do you remember that I really liked your...

In a letter never sent I said I miss you
And it told that I was dieing just to kiss you
I couldnt help but think
I was only wasting ink
And I probably needed to freshen up my drink

Now along with missed chances and fading romances where
Happiness sleeps and lonlieness dances
I sit all night long, waiting for you
Here I am king, maybe a fool

In a letter never sent I said I need you
And it told that I would always be true to you
But the letter's still here and your Nowhere near and I doubt that you
Even care
