Why can't you see what to believe?
Instead you follow a heartless scene
Freedom rings from love not hate
A country divided, inhuman race
A man who fights for his color's sake
A war unwon, No one will take
Whether black & white, blue or green
A man's a man & color's only skin deep
We can all love what we want
No one can make the choices who
Freedom's a will, Not just a way
What you make is up to you

Chorus:

Why can't we all live as one?
Racial wars are never won
What's the difference between you & me?
Open up your eyes & see... That... It's... Nothing

Head & skin are alike inside
Follow yourself, not other's self pride
Be what you are & nothing else
And in time only it will tell
Prejudice is just a stupid fad
The ignorant children shouldn't have
Just go away & take your shit
Cause your ignorance feeds their prejudice

Chorus:

Why can't we all live as one?
Racial wars are never won
What's the difference between you & me?
Open up your eyes & see!
