"Blind Spot"

You're so clever, you're so wise
Smart pretender in disguise
Living under the spell of blue glass eyes

Freedom is your only thrill
But there is no form to fill
You think you've won when Peter Pan is killed

Just read between the lines
'Till there's nothing more to find
Being afraid has made you blind

Dive through the circle
It's spinning too slow
Just gather your strength
And fall into unknown
Don't search for a way back
Drifting is the only way to grow

There's no proof for this physical distance
It's just a blind spot creating interference
You've gotta let go
Losing is the only way to keep

All your life you're just spinning
This curtain in front of you
'Till you finally crush

I can see you, all your keys
But you just feel a little breeze
Play with me or I could make you freeze

Mariner of your nightmare
Is actually the one who cares
Follow him, don't let him see you're scared

Floating bubble on your door
Holds you still just like before

You think you've found the truth but the only freedom
You really see is your own prison

Forget about all the myths and dare to believe in Yourself,
To believe in what you feel

Let go and the waiting will be through
Don't be afraid I'll be next to you
You can find the world beyond your dreams
If you're free
