You've heard it said, life you love it to death And truer words were never spoken from the breath of this chest
Envelop stress and give goodwill to the rest Push the limits to the test just to spit this for the blessed Digress toward the message in a movement to address
It's my quest to reflect life's compassion and respect
To show it's possible to crest the apex of what's best Society has gotta be better than this mess Move it forward through the storm, see the future's sun next
It's nothing but a momentary form to be trekked
I'm not impressed with those who continually oppress And neglect their fellow man to keep their own goals abreast Nevertheless - never be kept in check In the end you've got your back cause life's a game of chess
A contest that traps lest you protect your neck
And spread wings like a caged bird flying out the nest

Put your palms in the air, reach em up to the sun
That illuminates the paths, that our lives will run Cause the beauty's never done, it's constantly movin
This is the music for the midst of revolution...

This is for the Boulevard of Broken Dreams, overpopulated
Those destined to succeed, show it's possible to make it
Those prayin on their knees when it's too tough to take
it
Helping to believe give em strength to embrace it
Time is temporary - no longer can we take it For granted or bury dreams deeper than basements Life is a gift - we often disgrace it
By looking for diversions and distractions to replace it ... so this is love at it's most basic Giving more than you've been given to the human race with

The passion, desire, to alter our fate with Power to move toward the promised land we've chased it's
For the kid who's in it just for the taste with The knowledge it's impermanent, nothing will change it Time passes fast and the choice that we're faced with Whether or not to cease the moment we're graced with
