Ev'ry night I walk alone where no one feels the rain
White lines slash the street, leading me far away from
This pain
Wake up cold and you're not there
Fingers touching empty air

Million miles away, light years from my door
You're a million miles away...

And I can hear you in the wind, taste you on my lips
Burning like the cigarette I hold between my fingertips
Living with the memory
Only you can set me free

Million miles away, light years from my door
You're a million miles away, I can't take anymore
Chains of yesterday, loneliness not fading away
Million miles away, it's been so long, seems like a
Million miles away

I know you know how I feel
Distance makes it so unreal
Living with the memories
Only you can set me free

Million miles away, light years from my door
You're a million miles away, I can't take anymore
Million miles away, light years from my door
You're a million miles away, I can't take anymore
Million miles away, loneliness not fading away
Million miles away, it's been so long, seems like a
Million miles away
Million miles away
Million miles away
Million miles away
