"When I Say Too Much"

When I say too much, I just pour out the words
Without ever thinking them through
I get caught up in the heat of the moment
Start getting into home truths
Things aren't always black and white
In this crazy life

Even though I should know better
I bare my soul then I pull together
The pieces I left scattered all around

When I say too much I know I'll soon regret it
Wish that I'd bitten my tongue
When I loose control I let go of my secrets
That's when my heart wants to run
Things aren't always black and white
In this crazy life

Even though I should know better
I bare my soul then I pull together
The pieces I left scattered all around

So I try
To get by
Not to make, same mistakes
Still I cry

Even though I should know better
I bare my soul then I pull together
The pieces I left scattered all around

When I say too much, I just pour out the words
Without ever thinking them through
When I loose control I let go of my secrets
That's when I said I love you.
