What I'm thinking is so delicate

If I breathe, you know, I'm going to lose it

It's just a drop in the biggest ocean I know I've ever seen

And in a moment it's big enough to drown the whole world

This is my present to the world

And I want you to take it

This is my present to the world

Take it from me, please, please take it from me

All I know is I don't know it

It's raining babies from the sky down on me

Tiny drops on my windshield

And in a second it's raining, raining all over the whole
