He was wrong, he was right
Sitting still, standing high
As it came, passing by
Gave him looks, caught his eye
You know the faint of heart is bound for a tragedy

In his place in his dreams
I'm a king I'm a fiend
He never talks, never leads
Never has, never will
You know the faint of heart is bound for a tragedy

And all things too soon
Needed a break from pushing
Break from the other day
All things add up in the end

And he caught the wrong end
So tonight he's afraid
And he knows how this ends
It goes downwards from here
You know the faint of heart is bound for a tragedy

And all things too soon
Break from the other day
All things add up in the end

Break from the other day
Break from pushing
Break from my everyday
