

The Almost

"Endless Conversations"

Visit "Endless Conversations" on MotoLyrics.com

I need a new distraction
Passing all the days
And I see now
That I'm fading like the sun on the window sill Somethings never change but I know I will

And I'm looking for a new direction
I blame it on a place where I keep my questions
Tell me for so long can I ask you why
All I know is indecision

But in this life I find
That there is time enough to take it
And in this life I find
That there is time enough to waste it
On these endless conversations

And I ust had to write it down and tell you
Send it in a letter tell you now
That I have raided every page in your histroy
And I've thought about what life could be for me
And I'm looking for a new solution
There's are somethings that I just get used to

Won't you say it if you care, if you care for me
Tell me how it is, tell me how it is,
Would you talk to me

In this life I find that there is time enough to take it
And in this life I find that there is time enough to waste
it
On these endless conversations

In this life I find that there is time enough to take it
And in this life I find that there is time enough to waste
it
On these endless conversations

Visit The Almost page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.
