City streets are at a standstill tonight
As you and I take a walk beneath the stars
We were all alone on the outskirts of town
Where we got lost searching for ourselves

But if I was right for once it'd be tonight
When I told you everything would be alright
So take my hand and believe in me
When I say that this is a promise that I can keep

Broken Limits
We're so, caught up in this
One Hundred Kisses
Nothing can cure the sickness of how much I'm missing
you
I'd do anything to let you know, that I'm nowhere close
to being ready,
To let you go

I keep thinking back to that night
Trying to figure out the last time, everything was right
When our love was alive and we stayed up all night
Talkin for hours about the rest of our lives

When second chances turned into three
And Four Thousand Seven Hundred Six had a meaning
The days of our youth are fading away
As we grow up, get old, and go our separate ways

Broken Limits
We're so, caught up in this
One Hundred Kisses
Nothing can cure the sickness of how much I'm missing
you
I'd do anything to let you know, that I'm nowhere close
to being ready,
To let you go

Broken Limits
We're so caught up in this (caught up in this)
Broken Limits

Nothing can cure the sickness
Of how much I'm missing you
