

Alix Dobkin

"A Woman's Love"

Visit "A Woman's Love" on MotoLyrics.com

Because she's a woman
I didn't think I loved her
So unexpected we just stood and smiled
And I felt so fine
And it was so right inside
But how could I know I loved her
Because she's a woman

Because she's a woman
Confusion in my feelings
I tried to name it everything but love
But like a magic dream
It would not be turned aside
But suddenly and warmly it held me
Because she's a woman

Because she's a woman
She doesn't try to change me
She knows and understands a woman's ways
And I feel so free
To be what she sees in me
It's so easy to be her lover
Because she's a woman

I realize a woman's place is my home
And I know that we've always been in love
And so it will be for life

Because I'm a woman
A way was laid up for me
I've always thought I need a man to love
And all the men I've known
Were as loving as they could be
There's no man that can match her beauty
Because she's a woman

And she feels so much lust, we touch
A woman's love

